

Historic Preservation Experience

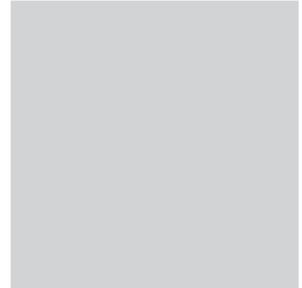

Providing earthquake protection within an existing structure demands special care to preserve the aesthetic integrity of the building and to incorporate original materials, often weaker than those used today.

Degenkolb meets the demands of renovation and rehabilitation projects in several ways:

- Sensitively preserving important architectural features
- Creatively finding an effective solution to seismic weakness
- Using the expertise gained from on-site evaluations, and therefore knowing which strengthening methods have failed and succeeded after major earthquakes during the last sixty years
